Select Federal Financial Aid. College costs are expensive and most students need some type of financial aid and scholarship funds to help pay for their post secondary education. Many students also have a part time job while going to school.

A career of your choice may require a college degree. Although a college degree is a very valuable investment towards your future, it can be difficult to pay for. For this reason, students can apply for loans, grants and scholarships to help them with their college expenses.

All of these options require some effort on your part. You must fill out the proper paperwork and get them in by the listed deadlines. Remember loans you need to pay back in full with interest. Grants and scholarships don't have to be paid back. Scholarships are an award, therefore sometimes more difficult to earn.

Click on each heading and explain briefly what is involved with each type of aid. You can write about each on this worksheet.
