Eligibility Criteria – 401-01-20-10

The Crossroads Program is designed to assist with child care and transportation costs for individuals who are Eligible individuals are:

- Parents up to 21 years of age (prior to the month the parent turns 21 years of age)

- Parents who are male or female

- Parents who are married or unmarried

- Parents who have the primary responsibility for the care of their child

- Parents who are pursuing high school, GED, or alternative high school
- Parents must be a resident of North Dakota.

- Parent and child must reside in the same home

In order to be eligible under the Crossroads Program the child and the parent must reside in the same home. If at any time the parent and child do not reside together, the Crossroads case must close.

Eligibility under Crossroads begins the first day of the month in which the signed Crossroads Program Application is received in the local county social service agency.

Parents must apply for or be in receipt of assistance through the Child Care Assistance Program in order to be eligible for the Crossroads Program.

The child care provider must be licensed, registered, self-declared or an approved relative with the state of North Dakota. (Refer to the Child Care Assistance Program Manual, 'Provider Requirements and Information 400-28-105'.)

The Crossroads Program does not consider assets or income when determining eligibility.

Eligibility for assistance with payment of child care expenses must be determined using the eligibility criteria defined in the Child Care Assistance Policy manual at 400-28-40, Crossroads Families Eligibility.

A copy of the Crossroads approval letter must be received by the county, which will verify the parent(s) is eligible for Crossroads. The approval letter shows the period of time the parent is eligible for Crossroads.

The only allowable child care costs that can be paid for individuals eligible for Crossroads are the costs associated with class attendance, employment, and attendance at parenting classes.

NOTE: Costs associated with participation in extracurricular activities cannot be paid.
A child in receipt of Supplemental Security Income (SSI) may be eligible for Crossroads provided the parent meets the Crossroads eligibility criteria.

When an individual eligible for Crossroads resides with the other parent of the child, the individual may be eligible for Crossroads without regard to the activities or income of the spouse or second other parent. This applies whether the individual is married to the other parent or not.

If both parents of the child are in the home with the child and both parents are pursuing high school, GED or alternative high school education, both parents may participate in the Crossroads Program.

- If the parents are married, one Crossroads application is needed and one case file is established
- If the parents are not married, each parent must apply on their own behalf and a Crossroads case for each parent needs to be established

Parents who participated in the Crossroads Program during the previous school year and intend to participate in the Crossroads program for the next school year continue to be eligible if:

- The break is less than a full calendar month
- The break is more than a full calendar month - if employed or participating in case management services

When there is a break of more than one full calendar month between educational activities (such as summer months) and during that break the individual is employed or receiving case management services, verification of participation is required.

Verification of school enrollment is needed:

- At application
- Each semester

A parent, who participated in Crossroads in the previous school period and who intends to participate in Crossroads for the next school period remains eligible for Crossroads during the break if the break is less than a full calendar month. If the break is more than a full calendar month, the individual will remain eligible for Crossroads coverage during the break if the parent is working or attending parenting classes during the school break. A new application does not need to be completed at the end of the school period as long as the parent remains in their approved activity for the duration of the break from school. At the time it is learned that the individual will not be returning to school, eligibility for Crossroads ends.

Example #1: Parent age 17 has a child. The parent is attending high school in December, and has a three week break from school due to the holidays. The parent will resume attendance in January after the three week break. If during the break child care costs incur due to employment and parenting classes, the parent remains Crossroads eligible and the child care costs can be paid by the Child Care Assistance Program as the parent is considered Crossroads eligible throughout the break.

Example #2: Parent age 16 has a child. The parent attends grade 11 in high school and is employed part time. School term ends in May and the parent will return to school in August. Since the parent will return to school in August, and is working part time, the parent will remain eligible for Crossroads and child care costs, while employed can be paid under the Child Care Assistance Program as Crossroads.

Example #3: Parent is age 16 and has a child. The parent attended high school and is in the 11th grade. School ends in May and the parent is not employed and not seeking employment. The parent plans on returning to school in August. Since there will not be a child care Crossroads need during the summer, the Crossroads case must be closed at the end of May. During the break, the student will not be employed or working with a Crossroads case manager, therefore, the Crossroads case must be closed the end of May.

In July, the parent reports obtained employment and requests assistance through Crossroads, and needs assistance with child care costs. The parent will need to complete a new Crossroads Program Application (and the Child Care Assistance Program Application if the case was closed). The child care costs can be paid by the Child Care Assistance Program as Crossroads since the parent will be returning to school in August.

NOTE: If the parent will not return to school in August, the parent is not eligible for Crossroads; however, eligibility may continue for the Child Care Assistance Program if all other eligibility criteria for the Child Care Assistance Program are met.

Example #4: Parent age 16 and has 1 child. The parent attends high school and is in the 10th grade. School ends in May, the parent intends to return to high school in the fall and the parent decide continues to participate in case management services, attend parenting classes that begin in June. Since the parent will be continuing with case management services through the summer have an approved activity less than one month after the end of school, the Crossroads case will remain open. The classes end the last week of June and the parent is not employed. The Crossroads case must close at the end of June because the parent will no longer have an approved activity for the rest of the break.

The parent decides in June they do not want to continue with case management but still intend to return to high school in the fall. The Crossroads case must close at the end of June because the parent is not in school, employed or participating in case management and there will be a break of more than 30 days.

Section 401-01-20-10-05 Eligibility for Crossroads and Temporary Assistance for Needy Families (TANF)

- Case management added as a service an individual could receive if Crossroads eligible
- Sections have been reworded
Eligibility for Crossroads and Temporary Assistance for Needy Families (TANF) 401-01-20-10-05

Crossroads and TANF policy allow for an individual to be eligible for Crossroads and TANF for the same period of time. However, in most instances, an individual eligible for TANF will be required to participate in the JOBS program, and thus, their child care expenses and transportation allowance will be authorized through JOBS Supportive Services. In this situation, there is no need for the case to remain eligible for Crossroads and the Crossroads case will be closed. During a month an individual is required to participate or volunteer to participate in the JOBS program, the individual would not be eligible for the Crossroads program.

Following are situations when it is beneficial for an individual to be eligible for TANF and Crossroads at the same time so the parent’s or minor parent’s child care costs can continue to be paid at 100% of the allowable costs, up to the maximum amount, without having to participate in the JOBS Program:

1. A minor parent who is not the caretaker (Primary Individual) in a TANF case and is attending high school. The child care costs can be paid under the Crossroads Program.

1. The minor parent who is not the caretaker (Primary Individual) in a TANF case and attends high school is not subject to the JOBS requirements, as the minor parent is attending school and is not the caretaker. Therefore, in order for the child care expenses to be paid while on TANF only, the minor parent would need to volunteer and participate in the JOBS program. The minor parent may volunteer to participate in the JOBS program. If the minor parent does not want to volunteer to participate in the JOBS program, they could apply for the Crossroads Program.

2. A caretaker, age 18 to 21, who is in receipt of TANF may be exempt from the JOBS Program due to personally providing full-time care for a child under the age of 2 months, or may have ‘good cause’ approved, for non-participation in the JOBS Program. The caretaker is exempt or has ‘good cause’ approval, may be and is attending high school, the parent could apply for Crossroads, and in need of assistance with child care. The child care costs can be paid under the Crossroads Program.

In these two situations, the caretaker, age 18 to 21, is not subject to the JOBS requirements. Therefore, in order for the child care expenses to be paid while on TANF only, the caretaker would need to volunteer and participate in the JOBS program.

Applications must be processed within 45 days. If due to circumstances beyond the Crossroads parent’s control, extenuating circumstances may be allowed exceeding the 45 day processing time frame.

Formal action (either approval or denial) must be taken on each month assistance is requested. Crossroads policy notifies the applicant of eligibility or ineligibility and also the county agency if applicable.

- Failure to provide information
- Failure to meet the criteria identified in 400-01-20-10, Eligibility Criteria

The same application can be used to determine eligibility for the month following the month of denial when ineligibility is expected to last for the month of application only.

An application may be withdrawn any time prior to being approved.

If child care costs are being incurred and the family does not have a pending or open Child Care Assistance Program (CCAP) case, the family will be referred to CCAP.
In two parent cases, if a Crossroads case is requested closed by the parent in whose name the case is in and the other parent wishes to receive Crossroads, the other parent must apply for Crossroads on their own behalf.
