

Rental Rehab Funds Available

BISMARCK – The Industrial Commission announced that approximately $36,500 in grant funds are available to owners of rental property occupied by low-income people with physical disabilities. Applications for the Rental Rehab Assistance Program (RRAP), which is administered by the North Dakota Housing Finance Agency (NDHFA), must be received by close of business on Friday, September 28.

“This program provides funding to make existing rental property more accessible for individuals who have a physical disability,” Gov. John Hoeven said. “It is important that rental housing continues to be upgraded to meet accessibility needs.”

“Preference will be given to nonprofit applicants making improvements that benefit individuals participating in the North Dakota Department of Human Services’ Developmental Disabilities (DD) and Vocational Rehabilitation (VR) Division programs,” said Attorney General Wayne Stenehjem. “Applications that include at least a dollar-for-dollar match will also receive greater consideration.”

“Grant funds may be used to build ramps, install door openers, audio and visual smoke detectors, walk-in showers, chair lifts, kitchen faucets, door hardware, and similar items to make apartments more accessible for individuals with disabilities,” said Commissioner of Agriculture Roger Johnson.
