Fort Berthold Community College (FBCC) is developing a Commercial Driver Training Program (CDTP) to train individuals interested in careers in driving, with a focus on providing a skilled, safe, workforce for the Oil Industry.

Funds are being requested for program start-up and operations for one year, including two part-time positions, fees, stipends and tuition for 15 financially needy trainees.

Technical Review

Recommendations were made from 3 OGRC Technical Advisors.

All recommend that the project be funded.

Although the project is worthwhile the do not fund recommendation was based on:

1. a significant decrease in need for new oil-field workers.
2. duplication of certain start-up fees and services currently provided for by a drivers training program at Williston College.
