Bismarck Assistive Technology Lab hosts open house

Disability Employment Awareness Month event showcases solutions for injured workers

BISMARCK, N.D. - The North Dakota Department of Human Services' Rehabilitation Consulting and Services office in Bismarck is celebrating National Disability Employment Awareness Month by hosting an open house at its Solutions Using Assistive Technology Lab on Tues., Oct. 30, 2007, from 3 to 6 p.m. The lab is located at West Central Human Service Center in the Prairie Hills Plaza, 1237 Divide Ave., Suite 1B.

Rehabilitation consultants will provide demonstrations, product information and purchasing sources on the latest assistive technology available for the workplace including software, office equipment, and furniture.

Established in 2001, the lab is a resource for individuals with disabilities and employers. People can try equipment that helps address computer access, hearing, vision, learning, memory, and organization issues.

For more information, contact rehabilitation consultants Cheryl Hess at 701-328-8816 or Tammy King at 701-328-8804.
