2. Meet with external evaluator regularly to discuss this strategy.	2022-23	On-going
3. Explore a common fidelity-type tool (Generic Fidelity Tool) for use with all units surrounding EWS that can be used across all units by doing a lit review and interviewing key players. <ol style="list-style-type: none"> a. Note that this fidelity tool would not replace any specific tools that the units are using for their particular EBPs. Rather, this will serve as a global assessment of good practices surrounding interventions for students (e.g., do you have a standard process in place for identifying students who might be at-risk for dropping out, have you identified indicator data for at-risk students, do you look at the data on a regular basis, do you identify the proper intervention for at-risk students, do you collect student progress data and fidelity of intervention data, etc.). b. The purpose of this common Fidelity Tool is so that NDDPI can accurately monitor the implementation progress that units are making and to offer technical assistance as needed. 	March 2022	Completed
4. Develop Common Fidelity Tool (the “EWS Checklist”)	April 2022	Completed
5. Implement the EWS Checklist with the two pilot units. Analyze data; determine PD/TA needs.	Fall 2022	Completed
6. Readminister the EWS Checklist with the two pilot units. Analyze data; determine PD/TA needs.	May 2023	Upcoming

2. Meet with external evaluator regularly to discuss this strategy.	2022-23	On-going
3. Interview those special education units/districts that are doing better than expected and those that are doing worse than expected. In essence do a “root cause” of their situation to determine what can be learned and shared with other units/districts.	April 2023	Upcoming
4. Add the EBPs that are being implemented at the district level to the regression analysis to further assess what is working well. (Do this after administration of the new PIER Tool so that this information can be more easily discerned than currently.)	2023-24	Upcoming
5. If possible, collect information from the Big Five surrounding attendance, behavior, and courses to improve upon the regression model. Course data could not be collected, but attendance and behavior were collected.	June 2022	Completed
