

RULES OF ENGAGEMENT

Use of Force:

Understanding Duty to Intervene, Rendering Aid, and De-escalation

POST APPROVED

Rules of engagement refer to the orders issued by a competent authority that delineate when, where, how, and against whom opposing force may be used, and the implications for what actions Officers may take their own authority and what directives may be issued by State-Federal Statutes, Policy-Procedure and Command staff directives.

This new course will focus on an Officer's personal and professional worldview by identifying how to control, de-escalate and manage themselves and others. They will examine use of force as it relates to the policies and procedures regarding Duty to Intercede, Duty to Render Aid, and De-escalation.

At the center of the discussion will be Authorized Use of Deadly Force By Peace Officers, including the recent amendment to the four-decade statute placing new requirements on peace officers.

- What are the new State and Federal requirements?
- How has case-law evolved regarding authorized use of deadly force?
- As a peace officer, what expectations exist under these new laws?

This class will be engaging and allow for Officer's to participate in reality-based hypotheticals to better inform them of the law and polices while allowing each to articulate why force was or was not justified.

What Attendees Are Saying

"I have been a law enforcement instructor for a decade. Mr. Ali's presentation was the best presentation/training I have been to so far. Every officer in Minnesota should see it."

"I thought with over 26 years of police service the PAUSE communication model would be just a refresher training. It was more than that! I learned new tactics of communication and trigger identification. Mr. French's presentation style kept my attention. He taught this old dog new tricks."
